First time in many years Oil glut rules out OPEC price hike

By S. Sidahmed

GENEVA, May 24 — For the first time in many years, world is not expecting a new oil price hike out of the 60th biannual OPEC meeting opening Monday bere. On the contrary, it will be watching whether OPEC will overcome its difficulties. Problems that are attributed to the changing oil market could be summarized as follows:

-Drop in demand. The free world consumption dropped from 52 million barrels per day (BPD) in 1979 to 50 million BPD last year, and to 48 million BPD at present.

-The economic recession is hitting the West, the main consumer, and compelling it to reduce consumption which it did by 6 percent last year and likely to continue this year. -Due to this situation, the market is flooded with an estimated two million barrels per day surplus, resulting in the spot prices falling by $2 below OPEC's official ceiling of $36 a barrel.

-This glut has made the oil companies take a tough stand in negotiating new contracts and especially on premiums,

Meanwhile, Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani repeated earlier calls for a price freeze. Yamani, on arrival at the hotel where the meeting begins M onday, was asked by reporters if he wants to freeze the price of oil.

"Yes, we have to," Yamani replued. He said the freeze should last for one and a half years. Iraq Oil Minister Tayeh Abdul Karim Subroto said they hoped Saudi Arabi a will lift its price from $32 a barrel to $56 a barrel.

Venezuela's Oil Minister Humberto Calderon Berti said he would call for a price freeze and a 10 percent cut in oil production, covering all OPEC states. He said 's enezuela favored one price, that is $36 per oarrel. He stressed the need to solve the price problem first, so that OPEC could then take up issues like helping developing countries hy guaranteeing them oil supplies.

Missile stalemate continues

BEIRUT, May 24 (Agencies) - While Syria stuck to its stand that there was no question of withdrawing the missiles from Lebanon to open up the airspace for free operations by Israeli attackers and the U.S. peace envoy Philip Habib waited in Tel Aviv for some breakthrough in his efforts, Prime Minister Menabern Begin told reporters after a cabinet meeting that Israel was giving the United States additional time to solve the

"It is not true that Israel is losing patience. We didn't set any time limit," he added.

Syria's media Sunday stepped up its campaign against Habib's mission and said war with Israel over Lebanon was" unavoidable." "Israeli threats coupled with U.S. support " It's make the explosion of the military situation unavoidable," said an eight-column headline in the Damascus daily AI - Buath, the organ of Syria's ruling Party. "When Hahih concentrates his missioo on asking victimized Syria to pull out its defensive missiles so that aggressor Israel will have free access to Lebanese airspace, theo we have to consider America s arrogance is unequivocally ranged behind Israel's arrogance," the paper said in an editorial.

Al - Buath also praised the unanimous support the Arab League pledged to Syria in case of a war with Israel at an emergency foreign ministers conference held in Tunis Friday and Saturday. "The rest of the Arah world has become a strategic reserve for Syria's steadfastness." Al - Boath added.

public for Habib, who has been shuttling around the crisis capitals since May 7. Begin said Habib was trying in Tel Aviv awaiting an answer to a proposal Habib heard in Beirut two days earlier. The content of the proposal was not revealed.

Begin's office also published a statement saying Israel had given an assurance to the Lebanese Christian forces in 1978 that Israel would prevent Syrian aircraft from attacking them, and that the guarantee was reaffirmed seven weeks ago.

With diplomatic efforts at a low ebb, the Lebanese capital was calm Sunday after violent firing across the commercial quarter in which six-persons, including a soldier in the Syrian-dominated Arab Deterrent Force, were killed and 20 others injured. But fighting also spread Saturday to the Baabda district housing the presidential palace. Press reports Sunday said the palace and the United States ambassador's residence sufferred direct hits.

At the palace, shells hit the balcony of a reception room and gardens, near the kitcheos, and damage was said to be considerable. A number of fires were aslo reported in the area. In central Lebanon, despite occasional shots, food convoys entered the town of Aahle, under siege from Syrian forces for 56 days.

Meanwhile, a Palestinian official said here that Syria and Lihya have offered to set up a network of surface-to-air missiles in Lebanon to protect it against Israeli air strikes.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, May 24 (Agencies) -Hijackers holding a Turkish airliner at a Black Sea airport of Burgas Sunday threatened to kill five Americans aboard it if 47 prisoners were not released from Turkish jails, the Bulgarian news agency BTA said. The hijackers set a dealine of 2 a.m. Monday (2300 GMT Sunday) for the release, the agency said.

BTA said that the hijackers warned that if their demands were still not met by 10 a.m. Monday (0700 GMT Monday) they would blow up the Turkish DC-9 aircraft along with all passengers. The five Americans, BTA said, were "from the bureau of Citibank in Istanhuf' apparently a reference to an office of the American banking firm of Citibank.

A Turkish delegation had arrived at the airport in Burgas, where the plane was being held, to talk with the hijackers, BTA said. But the agency said Turkish officials warned at the airport " that no talks on the release of the prisoners are possible." The officials said that if crew members or passengers on the plane were killed, "with this act the hijackers will sign the death sentences of their 47 adherents," BTA reported.

Camuran Guran, chief secretary of the Turkish ministry of foreign affairs, had started talks with one of the four hijackers, the ageocy said. It describe the hijacker as a man of about 20 dressed in corduroy jacket and hlue jeans. The BTA dispatch did not describe the politics of the four hijackers but twice referred to the prisoners they wanted freed as "adherents." Bulgaria's news agency said the hijackers had released a "few more" passengers of the 112 originally said to have been aboard, bringing the total released at Burgas to 25,

Earlier in the day, the four gunmen hijacked the plane during an internal flight from Istanbul to Ankara. The plane, with 110 passengers, five crew members and an alternative crew of three, landed in Burgas. The hijackers freed 19 persons who needed medical attention, mainly women and childreo. In Ankara, the Turkish government said the gunmen were believed to he left-wing extremists.

A government statement said Turkey had asked Bulgaria not to allow the plane to leave Burgas, but to ensure the return of the passengers and the hijackers to Turkey. Officials at Istanhul's Yesilkov Airport said the last communication with the plane was when the pilot informed the control tower that he would land at Burgas because of lack of fuel. Turkish state radio said the hijackers had asked to speak to a Turkish official after landing at Burgas.

The Turkish consul in Burgas went to the airport but official Turkish sources could not confirm that negotiations with the hijackers had begun. The radio said the plane was parked on a remote corner of the airport. Soon after the release of the 19 passengers, the hijackers allowed water and coffee to be delivered for the passengers, it added.

The hijacking is the second since the military seized power in Turkey last September. In October, specially trained commandos stormed the hijacked Turkish Airlines' Boeing 727 in eastero Turkey, which had been diverted after being taken over by right-wing Muslim extremists on a flight from Istanhul to Ankara. The four hijackers and seven other persons oo the aircraft were wounded duriog the rescue operation, which freed more than 100 hostages. Turkey's military rulers had rejected the hijackers' demands for the plane to be refuelled and for water for themselves and the hostages.

Meanwhile, Turkish authorities imposed news blackout on the hijacking, press sources said. Newspaper and oews agency offices were told by martial law authorities not to publish any stories on the incideot except for official releases, they said. Foreign ministry officials said further information would be made public through the prime minister's office. No official information was released immediately on the motives, identities and possible demands of the hijackers.

Turkey's military leaders, who seized power last Sept. 12, have cracked down heavily on right and left-wing terrorism. They have frequently vowed to eradicate terrorism which has cost 5,000 lives in the last few years. The state radio said later that two of the six males among the 25 passengers said to have beeo released by the hijackers had in fact escaped from the rear hatch of the plane.

The shooting broke out as a special unit of the police special intervention force launched an assault on the bank building. One of the members of the assault team repeatedly shouted through a loudspeaker calling on the gunmen to" throw down your arms and come out with your hands in the air."

Witnesses said that several hostages, their hands in the air, jumped from a terrace onto a balcony of an adjacent building as the shnoting gained in intensity.

Witnesses said that the police appeared to have forced their way into the interior of the bank. Earlier the extremist commando was reported to have smashed holes in the wall between the bank and the adjoining building. Sounds of heavy hammers and drills had been heard inside the hank. A hostage freed earlier Sunday said that the raiders had planted explosives in the building's hasement.

Several hostages were reported to have been evacuated from the huilding by the police team, about 12 of whom were said to have entered the structure. Later reports said that the police gained entrance hy crossing from the neighboring building to the terrace on the bank building. Witnesses said that, while the attacking police fired numerous bursts of automatic weapons fire, the extremists did not use their guns. As the firing continued, persons could be seen emerging onto the roof of the huilding. It was not known whether they were hostages or members of the commando.

Other hostages pressed against the bars covering the windows of the bank and shouted to the police. "Get us out of here," they screamed. "They're going to hlow us up." As the police unit attacked, there were also shouts of "doo't shoot. They're going to kill us all."

One of the hostages reportedly yelled that the rightist terrorists had not thus far killed anyone since they seized the bank Saturday. Witnesses said that some policemen apparently had entered the bank through the roof. About 40 minutes after the police assaulted the building, some persons, apparently hostages, broke through the principal door of the huilding and rushed into the street outside. Others broke out through an adjoining bank.

ART

Several of those escaping by the front door threw themselves to the ground as firing erupted around them. Two of the hostages remained on the pavement after that hurst of shooting ended, apparently wounded or dead. Others were able to make it to safety in a nearby square.

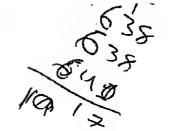

Wire

Police officials said that the hostages were safe and unharmed. Most of them preferred to hug the ground rather than risk taking a hullet in the confusion. Witnesses said the police were chasing down the extremist gunmen and were having difficulty distinguishing them from the hostages. One of the gunmen surrendered without any resistance.

About 9:30 p.m. local time (1900 GMT), the police appeared to be in full possession of the bank and police sources indicated that most of the hostages were safe and unharmed.

It was not immediately clear if there were any casualties in the operation to retake the hank. The end of the drama appeared to have begun about 9 p.m. when the police ceased firing. An uncasy calm settled over the district.

Between National Guard, Britain pact signed

RIYADH, May 24 (SPA) - Prince Abdullah, second deputy premier and commander of the National Guard, signed a SR1 billion agreement with the British government to draw up and implement plans for the . provision and development of medical services for the force.

British Ambassador Sir James Craig signed the wide-ranging agreement on behalf of his government.

The agreement also includes administering and maintaining the National Guard hospital in Jeddah and related facilities. The hospital, built by the Belgian Eurosystem Health Consortium, has 500 beds with 1 accommodation for the staff, power generating and water treatment plants, mosques, market and schools with the latest medical treatment techniques.

The agreement is part of a plan by the Scuudi Arabian government to provide comprohensive and up-to-date medical services to .National Guard personnel throughout the country. The hospital also will cater to the nee ds of nearby residents.

In addition to planning and building medical facilities, the British government will provide training facilities for guard personnel in all fields of medical service - including doc-tors, nurses, medical engineers, technicians, administrators and others

Speaking on the occasion, Deputy director of the guard, Sheikh Abdul Aziz Al Tuwaijri, said the memorandum of understanding between the two countries contained additional clauses and that the cost mentioned was only an estimate since such agreements cannot be limited to a certain amount due to the nature of services provided.

He said the administration and operation of the services eventually will become fully Saudized in the future. A seperate agreement regarding the Jeddah hospital will be signed in the next few days, he added.

Sir Craig said the agreement was symbolic of the friendship between the two countries in many fields, especially medical service because of its crucial importance in the service of mankind.

Sir Craig also said he is confident that such cooperation will increase in due course. He referred to the visit of the British health minister last year, which resulted in an agreement for broad cooperation in health services.

RIYADH, May 24 (SPA) - The Board of the Gulf Swimming Federation Saturday sent cables to King Khaled and Crown Prince Fahd, to thank them for hosting their meeting here. They sent a similar cable to Labor and Social Affairs Minister Sheikh Ibrahim Al-Angari, who is also the acting Youth Welfare president.

The federation decided to hold the sixth Gulf long distance swimming championships in the United Arab Emirates next September 25. They also adopted the rules of the championship and cotrusted the federation's geo-eral secretariat to draft the statute of the Arab federation. The draft will be submitted to the board at its next meeting in the UAE. Also, training courses for trainers and referees will be organized in Morocco, according to another decision of the federation.

Highly sophisticated devices control the loading and safety operadons. The port is linked to the storage port hy cables, and workers in the operations and computer room can control the operation, the paper said. One of the distinguished features of the East-West oil pipeline is a 1.7 kilometer road that provides access to the loading tankers by vehicles

The road enters 1.5 kilometers into the sea through a concrete bridge and will save the effort and time of operating a seacraft that provides contact with tankers when the port goes into actual operatioo.

To my utter surprise, my greeting was reciprocated in a strange accent which prompted me to ask him whether he was a Saudi Arabían, Upon which he said "I always tell them so." Hearing this, I asked, "Why don't you tell them that you are a Pakistani?" The reply was simple! "They respect the Saudi Arabian, therefore 1 preferred to tell them I was a Saudi Arabian national. Moreover, 1 had oot expected that a real Saudi Arabian would be among us in the hus."

"If you err somewhere with your nom de guerre, will you also say you are a Saudi Arahiao?" I asked. I wondered how people tried to tarnish our name even in distant lands. I even feared that any mistake in the world might thus be ascribed to our nationals. It is, indeed, tragic that they draw such an image of us in their minds. They take pride in their own nadonality when they are right, but they turn "Saudi Arabian" whenever they are wrong! Electricity supply move ups capacity

arabnews Local

LONDON, May 24 (LPS) - The electricity supply system in Saudi Arabia's Central Region is to be modernized at an estimated cost of £5 million. The move is an extension of a £10 million program that has increased the generating capacity in Riyadh from 400 to 1,000 megawatts in the last four years.

The latest project is between Saudi Consolidated Electric Company (SCECO) and British Electricity International Ltd., and work will be carried out by the North West Electricity Board (NORWEB), the same organization that carried out the Riyadh extension.

Work involves coordinating Riyadh Elec-tric Company with 38 others in the Central Region, which together make up SCECO. Some of these stations have separate generating capacity and transmission systems which will be integrated to a standard system. Primary substations, distribution sybstations and cable-laying are involved, and moves are toward underground rather than overhead cables.

Since NORWEB first became involved in Saudi Arahia, it has huilt up a close working partnership. Saudi Arahian visitors to Britain have included Rashed A. Al-Baker, vicepresident of SCECO; Abdul Aziz Wahid, general manager of REC; Ali Al-Barrak, general manager of the Qassim area and Hamad Al-Hassoun, deputy director of generation.

The new project manager is Alex Brown, who has been to Riyadh since October 1977. He will act as assistant to Dr. Ibrahim Moneef of SCECO.

In other developments, some 200 tons of steel rails are to be installed at the Al Khobar power station (phase 2). They will be placed around the complex's six sites and will be used initially to move into position several transformers that weigh 140 tons each.

The $125,000 contract has gone to Molyneux Rail Tracks Ltd., of Stroud, Western England.

MAKKAH, May 24 (SPA) — A four-day conference attended by representatives of nine postal zones in Saudi Arabia was opened here by Dr. Alawi Darwish Kayyal, minister of posts, lelegraphs and telephones. In his opening address Saturday, Dr. Kayyal reiterated that the target fixed for posts since the process was institutionalized in 1972 always has been the delivery of mail within 24 hours. He called on municipalities to help the postal authorities fulfill its mission.

Dr. Kayyal said that in 1972, the overall budget for posts was SR30 million, while in 1980 that budget amounted to SR800 million. In 1972, there were only 2,500 employees and at present there are more than 10.000.

He said the postal process depended on two main things: sorting and distribution. The sorting problems has been overcome as a result of mechanization, he added.

Posts Director Gen. Samir Banajah high lighted the importance of Makkah for postal authorities in view of the yearly pilgrimage rush and the millions of letters that go in and out of the Holy City. According to Muhammad Malihari, Makkah zone director, there are 40 mail centers in the Holy City apart from the central post offices in Makkah and Taif.

Radar station set up Libya moves army near Sudan

KHARTOUM, May 24 (Agencies) -Libyan troops in Chad have reinforced Iheir positions in a town 80 miles off the Sudanese border and are amassing forces in another strategic central Chadian town, the Sudan News Agency has reported.

PAGE 4

The report quoting eyewitnesses said Saturday "some 120 trucks carrying troops and tanks" arrived earlier this week in the town of Abeche near Sudan's western borders with Chad. The reinforcements came from Kufra, a zone in southern Libya. The report quoting the same sources said the Libyans were also "reinforcing their positions" in Ati, a town linking the northern and southern provinces of Chad. It gave no details.

Kashmir students protest Israeli mosque seizure

NEW DELHI, May 24 (AP) - University students in the northern Indian city of Srinagar struck Saturday for the third consecutive day in protest against Israel's con-version of the Ibrahim Mosque in occupied Hebron into a synagogue.

The United News of India agency reported that a mob of Muslim students seized the dean and three other teachers of the law faculty of Kashmir University and severely beat them for opposing their call for a campus strike. Riot police fired five rounds Friday to disperse a mob of 300 students who attacked them with bricks and stones when the law enforcement officials stopped an anti-Israel demonstration passing through city streets.

Local press reports said that 52 persons including several policemen, were wounded in the clashes Friday.

Western and Sudanese military sources have up till now estimated there were 1,200 Libyan troops supported by 60 armored car, artillery mortar and BM-13 millies in Abeche. These sources have said the Libyans aided by Soviet and East German advisers have set up a radar station and expanded the town's airport runway to accommodate MiG-23 jets.

In Ati, the same sources estimated the Libyans have 800 men," 30 armored cars and an unspecified amount of artillery and missiles. The report of the reinforcements comes on the eve of a scheduled visit by President Anwar Sadat of Egypt to Sudan. The two countries have a joint defense pact, and the presence of Libyan troops close to the Sudanese borders is worrying nations, officials have said. The Libyan presence in Chad is expected to figure prominently in leaders' two-day talks.

The Sudan news agency report said the Libyans have evacuated villages around Abeche where some 70 Libyans were recently reported killed in fighting between Libyan-supported factions and the troops of Chadian President Goukouni Oueddei.

The report gave no details of the evacuation. But Western relief sources in touch with developments on the borders have said refugees now trickle in a rate of 20 to 40 a day compared to the average of 200 earlier this month when fighting was going on in Abeche. Meanwhile, Egypt which has called for a withdrawal of Libyan troops from Chad condemned "as a dangerous precedent" the summit meeting grouping the leaders of Nigeria, Sierra Leone, Libya and Chad wbo met to discuss means of settling the situation in Chad. A communique issued by the Egyptian foreign ministry said the meeting was in effect "an endorsement of the Libyan occupation" of Chad, and thus in opposition to demands by 12 African countries earlier this

Moreover, the communique questioned the right of "a small group of nations to determine the fate of a country and force a fait accompli on the Organization of African Unity." Muammer Oaddafi, in an interview with the French news agency earlier Saturday said the organization wants Libya to maintain its troops in Chad until a neutral African peacekeeping force can be organized to take over

The four heads of stale who met in Chad have agreed that African peace-keeping force should be sent as soon as possible, an official statement issued in Freetown said. Qaddafi agreed at the meeting held in N' djamena Thursday and Friday to withdraw his troops from Chad after the African Force arrived, the Sierra Leone Foreign Minister Abdulai Conteh told a press conference in Freetown. No date has been set for the dispatch of the force, which will be under the auspices of the Organization of African Unity (OAU).

Officials in Freetown said the OAU peace-keeping force would cost the organization about $62 million. Previous calls for such a force have led nowhere partly because of a lack of funds. Under the terms of a 1979 Lagos agreement, a force was to be sent to Chad composed of contingents from Togo, Guinea, Congo and Benin but it was never sent. Various foreign armies have appeared there, including contingents from France, Nigeria, the Congo and most recently Libya.

Somali envoy denies report on purges By a Staff Writer

JEDDAH, May 24 - Somali diplomatic sources denied foreign newspaper reports that the top ten ministers and party leaders in Mogadishu had been sacked in a wide purge by President Muhammad Siad Barre.

Somalia's ambassador here Sheikh Abdullah Mahmoud told Arab News Sunday that the men involved were still in power and some of them are at present with President Barre on a private visit to the United States. They include Gen. Ahmad Sulaiman Abdullah, the powerful head of the intelligence department who is now chief of national security and a member of the elite five-member supreme committee led by the president. The former Defense Minister Muhammad Ali Samater, the Interior Minister Hussein Kulmiyeb Afrah and the speaker of parliament, Ismail Ali Abokor · lost their portfolios but remained members of the country's ruling Revolutionary Socialist Party. "This is what I think has caused the confusion in the minds of foreign reporters," the ambassador said.

Sadat visits Khartoum KHARTOUM, May 24 (AP) — Egyptian

President Anwar Sadat arrived here Sunday to attend the festivities marking the 12th anniversary of the Sudanese revolution, his first visit to an Arab state since signing a peace treaty with Israel 26 months ago.

Sudan, Égypt's southern neighbor, was also the last Arab state Sadat visited two months before signing the treaty that led 17 other Arab states to denounce the Egyptian leader as a traitor. Along with Oman and Somalia, Sudan maintained diplomatic ties with Egypt, but relations had noticeably cooled until last month when the two countries reinstated their ambassadors in Khartoum and Cairo. But the restoration of ambassadorial relations was related to the Libyan military intervention in Chad. Sudan's western neighbor. Both Egypt and Sudan bave repeated that the Libyan move was a threat to their own security and that ol the entire area.

Team for Iraq Philippines to clarify stand on Moro agitation MANILA, May 24 (AFP) - The Philippine government has sent an all-Muslim delegation to the Iraqi capital Baghdad to try to offset the influence with the Organization of Islamic Conference of the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF).

The 42-nation OIC which begins its 13th foreign ministers meeting June 1. has repeatedly thrown its concern behind the MNLF-led Muslim freedom struggle in southern Philippines, that has claimed at least 60,000 lives in nine years. The OIC has also urged the Philippine government to implement a 1977 Tripoli agreement with the MNLF, calling for the creation of Muslim autonomous regions in the southern Philippines.

The Philippine government maintains that it is implementing the autonomy plan, and the Iraq-bound delegation is composed of Muslim autonomous region officials. According to Philippine government officials, the OIC was being fed one-sided information by the Middle-East based leaders of the MNIF The NINLF, for its part, has charged that the autonomy being given by the Philippine

Harold Wilson feeds Israel's illusions

By Christopher Mayhew

Hundreds of bad books have been written about the Arab-Israeli conflict, but two weeks ago there was published in London what must surely be the worst book of all - The Charlot of Israel by the former British prime minister, Sir Harold Wilson, This is the worst book not because it is tendentious, one-sided and egotistical but hecause in addition to these things it is also profoundly boring. After all, nobody could call Begin's book The Revolt boring. But for most of its length Wilson's book is simply a selective compilation of extended quotations from cabinet papers, speeches and diplomatic documents, all designed to prove his basic thesis -"This study of the impact of Zionism right up to the present time, has been recorded to show the steady fulfilment of Weizmann's dream." Now it bas to be conceded that by the standards of most Western politicians Wilson is intelligent. experienced and industrious. How then could he come to make such preposterous misjudgements about the Middle East and contribute so much to worsening the tensions there? The answer emerges quite clearly from the book. It is that he built up an immense range of close contacts with Zionists and no contacts at all with Arabs. To his personal friendship with many Israeli leaders he added an extraordinary network of contacts with Jewisb friends of Israel in Britain - in the parliamentary Labor Party, the Labor Friends of Israel, the Jewisb Board of Deputies, and among his ministers, legal advisers, publishers, press officers and personal friends, and also subscribers to his secret Turst Fund which was set up on 1970 to help finance his political work. To make matters worse, some of the most influential of these contacts, such as Sir Brie Miller and Lord Kagan, were disbonest and disreputable,

When the 1973 war broke out, Wilson was leader of the opposition, and we read without surprise that 'As soon as the news of the invasion became known. I telephoned the Israeli ambassador to the Court of St. James, Michael Consy, and made an immediate appointment to see him and be briefed. Thereafter I was in contact with him each day to hear of developments." At the same time there is no record in the book of any conversation with any Arab of any kind. The book shows that Wilson was totally ignorant about the Arabs and completely helped by its Zionist friends abroad. Without the Zionist lobby in London, Israel could never bave been established. Without the Washington lobby today, it could never retain the occupied Arab lands. Yet friends and flatterers like Wilson are also a source of weakness. They tell the Israelis what they want to bear, feeding their illusions, protecting tham from the truth about themselves. This encourages the arrogance and intransigence which have isolated Israel so dangerously.

In a postscript to the book, evidently written in some haste, Wilson tries to distance himself from Menahem Begin. Yet those two committed Zionists have much in common. Wilson did not commit the crime of Deir Yassin, but he aids and abers it by not mentioning it in his book. He was not responsible for blowing up the King David Hotel, but be describes this outrage witbout condemning it. In one imp-ortant respect, moreover, his Zionism is more extreme than Begin's because it is more explicit. He, quotes with approval the Labor Party's explicit recommendation in 1944 "let the Arabs be encouraged to move out as the Jews move in," and criticizes Attlee and Bevin for abandoning this and other parts of Labor's proposals for Palestine. The main interest of the book is the light it sheds on the prejudices of an exceptionally influential Western Zionist. The book is tendentious and shallow, and also badly composed. It is a symptom of the moral decline of Zionism that its few remaining

The Gulf summit conference which opens today in Abu Dhabi at once raises the question of why it was not held much earlier and why the proposed Gulf Cooperation Council was not formed in the past. The GCC combines Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, U.A.E. Bahrain, Qatar and Oman, all of them being in the Arabian Peninsula and littoral states of the Gulf, now one of the most important regions in the world by virtue of its oil wealth and the designs of other powers on it. In any case, it is just as well that the six governments have decided to institutionalize their closeness and growing cooperation into a council like that of the European Economic Community which came into being nearly 20 years ago. The fact is that the six states have been consulting with each other over most issues of foreign policy and have been in touch over internal matters as well. Their foreign policies are identical and they are about, through the GCC, to standardize their internal affairs as well. Their economic policies have been subject to constant scrutiny in the past with a view to avoiding wasteful competition and achieving more effective and meaningful integration. This is already proceeding in the right direction. If not altogether satisfactory, at least it has made a beginning towards that end. A common market will be one of the logical outcomes of the GCC. The founders of this new international body of states of almost identical systems have been at pains to point out to whom it may concern what the GCC is not. They have pointed out that it is not a military bloc and threatens nobody's interests. It is too rich and too big to covet other people's lands or interests. On the contrary, it will be willing to give help to those who need it. Nor is it a military superstate that aims at harassing the neighbors as some of them have been led to believe. But the GCC will certainly seek to enhance its defense capabilities not to threaten others, but to deter those who might be contemplating interference in its internal affairs on any pretext. That it will not stand with arms folded if one of its member states is attacked by a third force is a foregone conclusion of herwise it will negate its own purpose for being a united group of states bound by links of common religion, language, culture, institutions, history, geography and political systems. The GCC has taken a long time to fructify. International and regional circumstances in the past were not conducive to its formation. There were colonial and imperialist influences in the region which did not favor such a grouping of Arab states. Since then these forces have gone and given way to superpower rivalry for some kind of military hegemony based on selfish national interests which if allowed to take its own course, might lead to a confrontation and plunge the region into a conflict in which it had nothing to do, and everything to lose. The GCC should now give the states the political, moral, economic and military prestige to prevent such a situation from happening in its territory. To the Arabs who have been saying that the GCC will deal a blow to the Arab League because unity should have come through it, it may be pointed out that, first. the Arab League has never sponsored any unity plan or carried out one and, second, the GCC should encourage other Arab states with similar qualifications to start a cooperation council of their own instead of fighting each other.

Kaunda faces mounting internal pressures

By Stephen Taylor

SALISBURY -In government circles in Zambia these days there is a perceptible tetchiness when the subject of its southerly neighbor Zimbabwe is raised. One official said recently. "Zimbabwe is the darling of the world now but we shall see bow they cope when they start baving problems."

Behind the jealousy of Zimbabwe's prosperity is a certain defiance, a belief that whatever mistakes have been made in Zambia over the past 16 years, the government is basically on the right track and that, despite mounting internal pressures, Zambia remains an open and relatively free society. There is still some justification in the second of those observations. The first, bowever, is being critically examined and dismissed by more and more Zambians.

Maladministration, a dramatic increase in corruption at senior level, and the inability of the agricultural sector to feed the country have created an unprecedented ebmate of criticism. The press and parliament have asserted themselves in recent months to a degree that would be unthinkable in most parts of Africa.

The most sensational allegations bave come from Titus Makupo, an MP who charged in parliament that Dick Litana, the first secretary at the Zambian Embassy in Bonn, had connived with government officials in demanding a slice of money raised abroad by a financier for a government food program. Makupo said that the deal bad been concluded in Paris and Lusaka and that Litana and his associates were to receive about $500,000 "commission."

The MP also referred to Mashu Khulila, the former military attache at the Zambian High Commission in London, who in January sold an arms end-user certificate to two Observer journalists investigating illegal arms dealing. Both envoys have been recalled for questioning and Khulila has been suspended indefinitely.

Last year anti-corruption legislation was introduced, creating the machinery, with a senior judge at its bead, to deal with the graft. Those netted so far, however, are minnows - for example a police chief who was jailed for stealing a car steering column. Street crime is rising too, and most houses in Lusaka's prosperous suburbs are surrounded by high fences and protected by belmeted security guards.

President Kenneth Kaunda appears increasingly cut off from the realities of his embattled country and shows no sign of deviating from policies that bave failed.

After months of unrelieved bleakness there bas recently been some welcome news for the government. The maize crop is a good one and should meet the nation's demands. There are signs that the cop-most important source of fore in exchange. Most important, the IMF approved a hig loan to Zamhia this month, enabling the government to repay debts for imports and remittance of profits and dividends.

But until Zambia can make headway against inbred problems, its young graduates will continne to depart for wider opportunities in Zimbabwe, and the good fortune of Zambia's neighbor will continue to rankle. - (ONS) resources, the paper said. It added that the summit's discussions are expected to bring about a crucial historic turn in the life of the peoples of the region. The paper was convinced that the Gulf will continue to provide an ideal area for any cooperation at local and international levels.

Referring to the resolutions of the Arab toreign ministers' conference in Tunis, Al Nadwa said that these resolutions prove the capability of the Arab nation to confront the challenges of the Zionist enemy. It expressed confidence that the Gulf Arab foreign ministers will follow the same lines in their meeting in Abu Dhabi, in order to give more strength and solidarity to their stances.

On the same subject, Al Bilad noted that Gulf cooperation has played a significant role in the extraordinary meeting of the Arab foreign ministers in Tunis, whose resolutions have stressed a lasting support for Syria, Lebanon and the PLO in their confrontation with Zionist plots in the region. When the Arab states of the Gulf meet in a conference in Abu Dhabi, they will renew their support for the Palestine issue, which is a fundamental responsibility of all the states of the region, the paper said. It added that the enemy is launching repeated assaults on the Arah people, and therefore the Arab foreign ministers' meeting came as a reaction to Zionist challenges. The paper stressed the need for confronting the Israeli enemy by all possible means, so that the enemy plots are laid bare before world public opinion.

Okaz described the Gulf summit conference as the "first real nucleus" on the road to solidarity and integration. It said the Gulf Cooperation Council is the fruit of efforts which the leaders of the region have been exerting throughout the past few years. The paper added that the council represents a tangible reality of Arab solidarity in the Gulf.

On the other hand, AI Jacirah dealt with the Lebanese situation, saying that Israeli activities pose the biggest challenge to the Arabs, who can successfully face it with their unity and solidarity. The paper regretted that Arab rifts still persist and that the Israeli enemy has found good time to make maneuvers in Lebanon, which is torn by sharp differences among the parties concerned. Over the past seven years of the civil war in Lebanon, Israel has made good its maneuvers in Lebanon, exploiting every political difference that had made divisions in the ranks of the Lebanese people. The paper warned that Israel is now striving to isolate Lebanon from the rest of the Arab nation and to compel the Lebanese to accept a non-Arab solution to the Lebanese crisis. Before this colossal challenge, the Arab nation will have to make a hard choice to overcome the obstacles now lying in its way, the paper concluded.

recent charges about hig new arms shipments from Cuba to the leftist guerrillas in El Salvador are an exaggerated picture of the situation, according to U.S. officials familiar with intelligence from Central America. These officials, who declined to be identified, are in the State Department and the intelligence community. While agreeing that some increase has been detected in the arms flow the past four weeks, they said it was incorrect to describe the traffic as "massive," the term reportedly used by Haig in talking with Republican members of Congress recently.

According to the officials, Haig's comments then and in congressional testimony May I apparently were not intended to be deliberately misleading. Instead, they said, he was relying on sketchy, poorly sourced reports. And, as one official put it, he "just ran off with it before checking with anyone who had analyzed the material in depth."

The result, the official added, has been to cause difficulties for administration efforts to explain its, El Salvadoran policy intelligibly to Congress and the American public. They said Haig's use of what one called "rhetorical overkill that doesn't match the facts" only increases the skepticism of congressional and other critics who charge the administration is straining too hard to justify its contention of heavy Cuban involvement in the Salvadoran civil

In his May 1 testimony before a Senate subcomm ittee, Haig said there was evidence of the arms flow from Cuba increasing again, with the new ship-ments going by air from Cuba to Honduras and then being trucked into El Salvador. He described it # an alternate supply route to compensate for the drying up of the flow from Nicaragua, through which the United States contends that massive amounts of Communists-supplied weapons poured into El Salvador in late 1980 and early this year. Last week, Republican members of the House of Foreign Affairs Committee quoted Haig as having said in a meeting that" massive shipments" of arms had resumed in the past month. In this shipments of arms had resumed in the past month. In this instance, tha congressmen said, Haig told them the arms were coming both from Honduras and Nicaragua. But officials who dispute Haig's statements give a different account. While conceding that the rebels have received some supplies through Honduras and Guatemala for a long time, they say the flow through these two countries, both controlled by military regimes friendly to Salvadoran authorities, appears to be small and nowhere near the proportions received earlier through Nicaragua.

What attracted Haig's attention, the officials said, were reports received here in late April that Salvadoran army units believed guerrillas in the Guatemala-Honduras area had more weapons than previously. That touched off speculation in U.S. intelligence circles that they might have been resupplied through Honduras. But, the officials continued, subsequent analysts of the information gave no grounds for concluding this was the case. Instead, U.S. analysts say, if guerrillas in that area do havenew weapons, they probably came from stockpiles set up earlier by the rebels or from a redistribution of arms held by other guerrilla groups.

As to Haig's more recent assertions about Nicar agua, the officials said evidence has been received in the past four weeks indicating that the flow, which administration officials had described as "down to a trickle," had picked up scain. But, the officials cautioned, the information available so far indicates that it is modest compared to the situation earlier this year, and they stressed that it cannot be described as "massive" or even large. Wicked press campaign against Arabs in London

By Charies Frederick

London Bureau

LONDON - Arabs in the affluent London borough of Kensingtoo have recently been the object of a vigorous anti-Arab press campaign. In its May issue, the London-based publication. Voice of the Arabs, reveals that the chairman of the Kensington couocil bas writteo letters to the press about "Arab . landlords." There have also been veiled hints and innuendos in a oumber of publications claiming that residents in the Kensington area are becoming worried by the activities of unnamed and mysterious Arab tycoons.

Such reports have appeared in a number of London papers. They have eveo appeared across the Atlantic: "Arabs take over Loodoo property" has also been a current headline io a current edition of a New York magazine owned by Australian Jew Rupert Murdoch.

The implicatioo is that wealthy Arab landlords have acquired apartmeets, bouses or eveo blocks of apartments which they bave then proceeded to relet, in some cases to local tenants, or sell at inflated prices.

Claud Morris, publisher of the Voice of the Arabs, received a telephone call from the tenant of a Kensingtoo apartment who said the block in which she lived bad been taken over by an Arab landlord and that be was putting unfair pressure on all the tenants. At the meeting with Morris, she claimed the Arab bad raised reots by two-thirds, the porter service had been cut down and other services were being rapidly reduced. Sbe alleged that all this was being done to force present teoants to move out. Once that had been done then the apartments could be rented for much higher reots to new teoants. She said that six apartments had already been vacated and that the empty apartmeots were being lavishly refurnished for letting to wealthy overseas visitors.

Asked for the name of her landlord she said that extensive checks bad revealed that he was Sheikh Rashid bin Said Al Maktum, ruler of Dubai and Prime Minister of the United Arab Emirates. Morris revealed that tenaots' associations were formed to fight the 'Arab landlord" and that press support bad beeo promised.

In special focus was one block of apartmeots in Londoo SW7, the block alleged to be owned by Sheikh Rashid of Dubai. The UAE Embassy to meet the presideot of the tenants' association at that block of apartmeots.

Investigations followed and it became crystal clear that Sheikh Rashid bad oever owned the property. Neither he oor his agents in Loodgo had any idea of the matter. Thus the anti-Arab campaign was based oo a false premise. Since then there bas been silence from the original protestors and the press has dropped the anti-landlord line.

According to Claud Morris, the eotire affair appeared to be yet another example of finding in the Arabs a scapegoat and blaming Arabs in particular for implicatioo in what was claimed to be a London housing scandal.

Maria Marcalan Toxic-shock mystery solved

By a Science Correspondent

LONDON, - An American doctor has discovered the cause of toxic-shock syodrome - the mystery disease that strikes suddenly, often fatally, and has puzzled the medical professioo in receot months, Dr. Patrick Schlievert, an assistant professor at the University of Minnesota Medical School io Minneapolis, bas identified a chemical poison made by the bacteria causing the disease that bas been linked to tampon use io women. The discovery should make it possible to diagnose the disease hy a laboratory test.

Evideoce that toxic-shock syndrome was caused hy a new strain of staphylococcus bacteria prompted the search for some way to differentiate the strain from others that do not cause the disease. The toxin, or poisoo, is ao important identifying marker for this bacteria.

Schlievert has managed to isolate the bacteria that release the deadly toxin. Injected into animals, he found that the toxin produced many of the symptoms characteristic of toxic-shock syndrome in bumans, such as fever, a dramatic drop in hlood pressure and a rash.

Usiog the toxin, researchers are oow working oo a test that can detect the preseoce of chemical antibodies that rally against the toxio in a patieot's blood. Such a test could positively identify the syndrome and less severe cases of the disease which are ofteo missed. Proving the presence of the disease is critical for correct treatment, because toxic shock syndrome has manifested a collection of symptoms that also occur in other diseases.

Aussies split over Charles

By Tony Blackie

SYDNEY (ONS) - Prince Charles' popularity in Australia is falling. A poll taken last week by the Sydney afternoon oewspaper, The Sun, showed only 37 perceot of Australians want him as governor general. The remaining 63 perceot are adamantly against him or any other member of the British royal family taking the job. The poll came in the midst of the row over the "Charles and D?" tapes, which, eveo if fakes, have given Australia's republicans the last laugh over both the Australian and British governments. For the republicans, the tapes seem to bave ensured that Charles will oot become Australia's next goveroor general. They have embarrassed the royal family and have made an interoatiooal laughing stock of Australian Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser

The tapes row bas also proved that Charles can use political muscle to get himself out of a tight spot, in view of the British governmeot's action to ban the German publicatioo which has printed part of the transcript, Republicans fear the same kind of muscle could be used by Charles as governor geoeral. Telecom, which runs Australia's telephone system, has been holding an inquiry, but is in a difficult position; if it proves that someone did indeed tap Charles's phooe, it will oot be able to charge anyooe without more emharrassment for Buckingham Palace.

But is it feasible that Charles's calls could have been taped? According to Telcom, all his operator calls were handled hy a senior operator at Sydney exchange. Charles had been staying with polo-playing farmer Sinclair Hill at Moree in western New South Wales. Each time Charles wanted to make an international call, Sydney was informed and the senior operator would call him back, bypassing the Moree exchange, so it wasn't done there, it seems.

Agoraphobics--victims of disrupting disorders

By Joan Sweeney

LOS ANGELES (LAT) - Connie J. would get up at 5 a.m. to drive her busband 35 miles to his job because he bad become terrified of driving. The trip would take nearly two hours because he insisted that she avoid freeways and certain other areas. "If I got on the freeway, he just flew apart," she said of her busband, who suffered from agoraphobia. "When we'd approach a bridge, I'd have to pull over. It took a long time to get him that 35 miles."

After she left him at work, she would go home, then drive back the 35 miles to pick him up. "I got to feel caged," she said of her 140-mile-a-day driving stint. "I didn't want to be in that car with him, plus he'd be maybe crying or yelling at me or hitting the dash-board in frustration. I mean it was a horrible, homible scene."

As Connie's case demonstrates, husbands and wives of agoraphobics are also unwitting victims of a disrupting disorder that can dictate that the family change its life. An agoraphobic is beset by an unreasonably intense fear in many situations like markets and other stores, elevators, escalators, theaters, restaurants, parties, meetings and the road.

Connie said her busband "suffered from fear of just about everything: escalators, elevators, wide-open places, closed-in places, crowds. Driving was the No. I thing." Any of these can precipitate a panic attack in which an agoraphobic's heart races, his paims sweat, his stomach churns, his throat tightens. He has difficulty swallowing and feels as though he can't breathe. Accompanying chest pains may make him suspect a heart attack. An agoraphobic becomes terrified of these attacks and will go to enoromous lengths to avoid any situation that might trigger one. In severe cases, they can scarcely stir outside their homes.

As a result, spouses and children must do the shopping and run the errands, even take a supporting joh, doing the things that the agoraphobic cannot do. Spouses must shoulder more responsibility. Social life is constricted, and children may wonder why their afflicted parent doesn't take them places. "Your world becomes very small," was the way several spouses of agoraphohics described their own lives. These relatives agreed to discuss life with an agoraphobic on condition that their real names not be used. Dave .T., husband of an agoraphobic, said, your lifestyle is geared more to problems that are happening to your wife. It has a tendency to change what yoo would like to do, and it limits what you do. "Probably more than anything else it adds an awful lot of tension to things that you do" he continued. "I was in tune with her enough so that if she wasn't going to be comfortable, it wasn't much fun for either of us."

"Both of you feel cut off from other people," said Martin R., whose wife was an agoraphobic for nearly 20 years. "Your friends get fewer. The only time she could go anywhere was with me and then ... she had to have an escape route." They would have to sit near the door in a restaurant or on the aisle in a theater. If they went to a party, they told people that ooe or the other of them was not feeling well in case an anxiety attack might force her to leave.

Connie said of her husband, "I was his security blanket. I became his mother, doctor, everything. He had to know where I was, where I could be reached every minute of the day or night ... "I could't have any social life or friends," she continued. "I couldn't eveo see a girl friend occasionally. I'd want to go visit a friend or even a oeighbor's house, and he insisted upon coming along, or they came home. It's just such a totally unreal situation.

It is not known how widespread agoraphobia is. But, according to Dr. Larry Michelson of the Phobia Clinic at the University of Pittsburg School of Medicine, ooe epidemiological study based on a very small sample indicated that I million to 1½ millioo Americans may suffer in varying degrees, ranging from mild to severe. About twothirds to four-fifths of agoraphobics who seek treatment are women, therapists report. One theory for this disproportionate oumber of women has it that it results from society's emphasis on passive, compliant roles for women.

Others believe the problem may be more common among men than the treatment statistic indicates. "Men are more reluctant to seek help," said Joanne Bruckner, a licensed marriage and family counselor in Gleodale, Calif., who runs a terrap center there. Terrap is a nationwide organization offering a self-help treatment program for agoraphobics that includes group sessions and gradual desensitization to fearful situations." There's so much publicity about it as a housewife's disease," Bruckner said. "Meo feel it's really a disgrace.'

Therapists say agoraphobics tend to be sensitive, eager-to-please individuals with a critical parent in their background. "There's always a critical parent," Bruckner said. "Agoraphobics are super-sensitive people in all respects." "Criticism is the most devastating thing that could possibly happeo to them," said Dr. Arthur B. Hardy, a Menlo Park, Calif., psychiatrist and a founder of terrap. "It's awfully hard to understand why they take everything so much to heart."

This sensitivity can be hard on spouses who find their innocent remarks misconstructed as criticism by the agoraphobic.

Missile deployment German protesters attack NATO plans

MUNICH, Wesl Germany, May 24 (AP) - Thousands have gathered at Munich's famed "Marienplatz" to denounce NATO plans to introduce a new generation of U.S. nuclear missiles in West Germany.

Rudolf Schoefberger, the main speaker at the rally, said Saturday plans to place some 572 U.S. Pershing II and cruise missiles in Europe by 1983 "should be opposed with every strength." Schoefberger is a member of Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's Social Democ-

Kenya releases Nation editor

NAIROBI, Kenya, May 24 (AP) - Police have released the editor in chief of East Africa's largest newspaper group but continued to hold two editors and two reporters Sunday. Another editor was picked up Saturday.

President Daniel Arap Moi, angered by reporting of a doctor's strike, has accused the newspaper group Friday of attempting to create uneasiness in the country and threatened to ban the papers "if this attitude persisted."

Joe Rodrigues, editor in chief of the Daily Nation, Sunday Nation and the Swahililanguage Taifu Teo, was released after about 18 hours in police custody, an attorney for the newspaper group said. It has reported that Rodrigues was asked to report back to the Criminal Investigation Department. the detective branch of the police, Monday morning.

Schmidt backs the weapons and is faced with a serious revolt from the left-wing of his own party against the NATO decision.

"According to the plans of the United States, West Germany would become the launching pad for America's forward-based rockets," Schoefberger said to the applause on the audience.

The rally in front of the city hall, or "Rathauu", was nearly filled with protesters. who sang, shouted protests with bull borns and carried banners reading; "End the Murderous Armament."

The rally was sponsored by the "People's Movement for Peace and Disarmament," and a spokesman for the group said some 10,000 persons were present. Police said only 3,100 participated, but journalists at the rally contended the crowd contained several thousand more persons than the police estimated.

About a dozen members of the West German armed forces attended the rally in uniform, police said. German law forbids military personnel from appearing at political rallies in uniform.

One of the soldiers addressed the crowd during the demonstration and spoke out in support of disarmament. On Saturday, the West German Supreme Court in Karlsruhe announced it had rejected an appeal from an army officer, who asked that his four-day jail sentence be considered by the court. The officer had been found guilty of wearing his uniform to an anti-war rally organized . by a West German union group. Police also reported that about 30 young persons had taken over a church in Munich's student area of Schwabing Saturday to protest against the NATO rockets.

Communications satellite blasts into orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Florida, May 24 (AP) - The world's largest telecommunications satellite was launched Saturday on an Atlas Centaur rocket at Kennedy Space Center. The launch at 6:42 p.m. EDT (2242 GMT) had been scheduled for Thursday but was delayed because of problems detected in the two computers of the rocket's main safety control system.

The satellite, known as the Intelsat V-B, is scheduled to reach a stationary orbit Monday about 35,887 kms above earth. The orbiter is capable of transmitting about 12,000 telephone calls simultaneously as well as two color TV channels. That is double the capacity of the Intelsat IV-A satellites that now form the heart of the 105-nation International Telecommunications Satellite Organization

The satellite is the second of a new series of nine international telecommunications satellites. The first was launched successfully in December and moved into position over the Atlantic, where it is still undergoing testing. The global Intelsat system is handling about two-thirds of the world's overseas telecommunications traffic, ran ging from telegrams and phone calls to television and data.

6 Angola rebels sentenced to die

BELGRADE, May 24 (AP) - A court in Angola's porthero province of Kabinda sentenced six members of the dissident "Flec" movement to be shot to death, a Yugoslav report bas said. The report, by Tanjug news agency from the Angolan capital of Luanda, also said four more members of the movement received prison sentences ranging from two to 24 years.

The Angolan public prosecutor had demanded death sentences for seven of the accused, it said Saturday. The accused, described as "terrorist," were charged with committing several "diversions," preparing assassinations of political and military figures in Kabinda, spying, and with other "acts against state security," the report said.

Marcos orders new plebiscite

MANILA, May 24 (AFP) - Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos Sunday urdered that a plebiscite be beld simultaneously with the June 16 presidential elections to ask the people if they are in favor of holding village elections after the presidential Doll.

Research to this development, oppositionists planning to boycott the poll to protest Marcos' "maneuvering to ;., institutionalize dictatorship," charged that the referendum order was intended to counter their boycott and confuse the issue in the coming polls.

Marcos had signed a proclamation calling for the referendum in a campaign rally Sunday held in nearby Bulacan province.

Poll boycott proponents had earlier asserted that adding a village election issue in the coming presidential polls would be tantamount to - conceding defeat ; to the boycott movement."

E. Germany to extend army service for youth

BONN, May 24 (AFP) - The East German government is thinking of extending the current 18 months of military service for all eligible citizenry, the West German magazine Der Spiegel reported | Sunday. But Communist Party officials had not yet reached a decision, the magazine added. East Germany, Romania and Hungary have the shortest periods of national service in the Warsaw Pact, as other pact members have two years. Freedom for Tibet ruled out

PEKING, May 24 (AP) - China has declared its door "is always wide open" to Tibetan exiles who want to return, but warned against any move aimed at independence for the rugged western territory. "The so-called 'Independent Tibet' Movement aims at turning Tibet into a colony and appendage of imperialism, which will surely fail because it betrays the country and the interests of the Tiberan people," the Communist Party newspaper Pople 's Daily said.

In a front-page editorial, the paper also declared there could be no return of the "leftist" policies aimed at coercing Tibetans into giving up Buddhism. But it said the Tibetan masses "would not permit counterrevolutionary activities to sabotage stability and unity under the pretext of religious freedom."

The official Xinhua news agency said Li Weihan, an official of China's United Front Organization, was among those who addressed a rally of 1,400 persons in Peking Saturday marking the 30th th anniversary of the agreement that put Tibet under China's political and military control.

The Chinese army actually moved into Tibet in 1950. In 1959, it put down a revolt against Chinese rule, and the Dalai Lama, Tibet's ruler, fled into exile in India.

Li said, "on this occasion, we cannot but think of the Dalai Lama and the Tibetan compatriots overseas who live under another's roof and separate themselves from their motherland and its people. This is unendurable for any patriotic person. We are very concerned about their sorry plight. Our consistent policy is that all patriots belong to one big family, whether they rally to the common cause early or late."

Last month. a spokesman for Tibetan exiles in India said Chinese authorities had refused permission to a group of exiles to visi their homeland this year. Previous exik delegations that visited Tibet charged the Chinese with continuing repression of dissidents and stripping their land of its natura resources.

The People 's Daily said that under Chinese Communist Party leadership, Tibet hat abolished serfdom under manorial lords. boosted total grain output more than three times in the last 30 years, built highways and schools and promoted Tibetans to leading positions.

Last year, bowever, Chinese authorities admitted failure e in national policies applied too rigidly to Tibet and ordered higher prices paid to farmers, tax exemptions and greater local autonomy in an effort to boost the region of 1.7 million people out of poverty.

In a rally attended by 1,600 in the Tibetan capital of Lhasa Friday, Xinbua added. Ngapoi said, "Tibei now has been transformed from feudal serfdom into socialist society. This is an earth-shaking change." It said he also praised the one million former serfs who bad safeguarded the border area of the country. Tibet borders India, Nepal, Bhutan and Burma.

The People 's Daily said Tibet first came under Chinese rule in 1253, under China's Mongol emperors. In the 19th century, a said, "imperialist forces often plotted to separate Tibet from China. Shortly before the Chinese army's move into Tibet in 1950, China claimed British and American imperialists had infiltrated the region and that its army would drive them out."

Electronics magazines in the U.S., West Germany and Japan have made Sony Betamax the winner!

"VIDEO" Magazine, U.S.A.

⁶⁶In my opinion, the Sony-developed Beta format is superior to VHS in several ways, including better cassette design, Leading consumer electronics magazines recently featured test reports that conclude Sony's Betamax – and Sony's Beta home video format – are superior to the competing VHS format machines.

Video and Video Buyer's Review, published in the U.S., a special edition of West Germany's HiFi-Stereophonie, and a special VTR edition of Japan's Rajio Gijutsu (Radio Technology) magazine all carried reports that Sony's home video system is the clear winner, even though Betamax models and test methods varied according to market area.

superior tape handling, and overall better video engineering?"

⁴⁴I have concluded that Beta is better than VHS, at least at the most economical slow speed, and that VHS provides the best picture quality at the two-hour only speed.⁹⁹

⁶⁶...the Beta (writing) speed is faster by over one meter per second. Consequently, it is better able to deal with longer recording wavelengths in both color and black-and-white (luminance). Higher writing speeds also increase effective signal-to-noise ratio and improve head-to-tape contact that minimizes picture dropouts.⁹⁹

Roderick Woodcock, Technical Specialist

"HiFi-Stereophonie," West Germany.

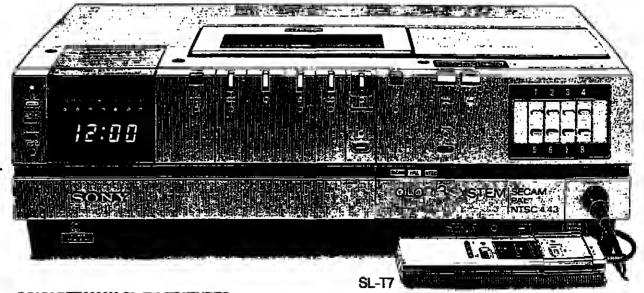

⁶⁶ A short glance at the test results shows the Sony videorecorder leads all the other models in almost every field.⁹⁹

German hopes on economic front fade BONN, May 24 (AFP) – West Germany's economy, nnce the envoy nn the world for its dynamism and growth, has fallen on hard times, and the prevailing mood in the country about economic prospects is still rather pessimistic, at best.

West German Finance Minister Hans Matthoefer, for example, said this past week that "the economy is not working this year as was still generally believed likely last January when everybody was betting on a strong recovery in the second half of the year..." And he said that now it is impossible to talk of such a recovery. He made his comments in justifying the increase nf 6.1 billion marks in the anticipated federal budget deficit this year, making a total of 33.5 billioo — a record for West Germany. The vice-president of the Bundesbank

The vice-president of the Bundesbank (central bank), Helmut Schlesinger, commented recently that the outlook for the economy "is still understandably quite mixed." Oo the other hand, the Bundesbank was fairly optimistic in its May report, published last Wednesday, noting that foreign orders to German industry jumped by 14 percent in the first quarter from the level of the last quarter of 1980 and were 6.5 perceot higher than in the comparable quarter last year.

The bank added that industrial output, excluding constructioo, was almost two percent higher in the first quarter than the previous quarter. On the other hand, the IFO Economic Institute of Munich has reported a dip in capacity use from 79.9 percent last December to 79.7 percent in March.

The most recent World Bank figures put China's external debt at $1.5 billion.

West-Third World rift surfaces

LIBREVILLE, May 24 (R) — A deep division betweeo the developing countries and the West over how the world's economic troubles should be tackled has emerged even more clearly as a result nf a gathering of financial leaders from 141 nations here this week.

The dispute has beeo growing for years as the Third World has fought far mare say in the big Western economic forums and complained that the West gave little aid to developing countries and often found ways of preventing its young industries from selling their goods in Western markets. It has come to a head because of the stern anti-inflation line being takeo in the West, especially in the United States aod Britain, known as monetarism — involving cuthacks in public speoding, including foreign aid, and a tight grip on credit which has led to high interest rates.

The Third World nations say they are being hard hit by the West's mooetarism, and that heavy hurdens are being placed on the poorer countries which have huge balance of payments deficits as they try to pay for more expensive oil and other commodities, while their economies stagnate through lack of aid and credit. Disagreements burst into the open at this week's meeting here of the interim committee, the key policymaking body of the International Monetary Fund (IMF).

The IMF, the world's main lending agency, was set up by the West in 1944 to help nations in balance of payments difficulties. By its loans and its monitoring of the world economy, it has worked steadily to help smooth out economic relationships between the powers, struggling to prevent the world from being plunged into the sort of economic chaos which marred the 1930s.

But the world has grown more complex since the early postwar years and the call from the developing countries for a higger share in international financial resources has placed strains on the IMF. The new multicultured world was vividly illustrated as about 800 financial ministers, central bank governors and officials flew into this equatorial west African capital.

The delegates, many garbed in dark suits and ties despite the steamy heat, gathered in a huge concrete conference center oo a hill outside Libreville as African dangers swirled and gestured in the car park.

 It was obvious from the start of the preliminary meetings that the Third World and the West did not hold the same views about the world's economic ills. The 'Group of 24', a caucus of countries representing the Third World, drew up a list of proposals aimed at easing the credit squeeze.

They asked the IMF to organize a huge enlargement of its pool of credit, by a big new allocation of SDRs (Special Drawing Rights), the IMF's unit of account which countries use to gain access to hard currencies. They also argued against what their communique called "the over-emphasis placed by industrial countries 'oo restrictive monetary policies resulting in higher interest rates which impose heavy burdens on the developing countries."

They expressed deep concern about what they called the stagnation of official development from the richer countries. The chairman of their group, Philippines Finance Minister Cesar Virata, said the West should use alternative methods such as tax and " income policies to fight inflation, and should stop protecting its ageing "sunset" industries with subsidies while turning instead to high technology.

Mauroy vows to fulfill all economic pledges

LILLE, France, May 24 (AFP) - Prime Minister Pierre Mauroy Sunday stressed the Socialist party's economic program, especially a planned shorter work week as his cabinet prepared for next month's legislative elections which will determine whether his government can deliver on its promises.

In his first speech as prime minister, Manroy said his government will keep its promises on an array of social measures. Reducing the work-week - a key plank in the party's program to cut unemployment --will get top priority, he said.

"The government will construct change with realism and determination Mauroy said

"I am totally aware of the strength and weakness of the French economy as well as the formidable challenges facing European economies," he said, adding, however, that many of France's weaknesses were the result of the previous government's policies.

He reiterated the Socialists' desire to give every unemployed person a job and sufficient income, to-raise the minimum wage and to increase aid to the aged, to families and tenants with modest in homes.

'To farmers, to husinessmen, to tradesmen and to merchants, I say that a society of ambition and success is not incompatible with the endeavor for justice and fairness," the prime

Dover port hit by trucks' blockade

DOVER, May 24 (AP) - A 14-hour blockade of this English Channel port by truck drivers, mainly French and Italian, fed up with strikes by British customs officers was lifted early Sunday after hundreds of vacationers spent the night trapped in the port area.

The truck drivers, including several Britons, parked their vehicles across Dover's seven car and freight berths Saturday night in protest at continual delays to freight traffic caused by 11 weeks of sporadic pay strikes by British civil servants.

A hacklog of several hundred cars built up at the port, while other vacationers and their cars spent the night trapped aboard incoming ferries. "The atmosphere is all right now," a spokesman for the Dover Port Authority said Sunday morning after persuading the truck drivers to pull move their vehicles away from the berths.

Truck drivers' tempers boiled over after customs officers on the early evening shift Saturday stopped work. The morning shift reported normally. British airports and ports are among government facilities hit continually in the 1 1 weeks of rolling pay strikes by the country's 530,000 bureaucrats. The Conservative Party government is adamant. It will not increase its 7 percent pay offer. The employees insist on a 15 percent wage increase.

arabneus Economy U.S. sets trend

Electronic car era dawns

DETROIT, May 24(R) - The day is fast approaching for the electronic car that thinks, talks and shows the driver how to get where be is going.

Major U.S. Car manufacturers have switched on to the electronics revolution and the cars of the future will be run by computers.

By 1984, trend-setting American cars will have an electronic dashboard that actually talks - a synthesized voice perhaps telling the driver the seat belts are not fastened, a door is not closed properly, or the fuel tank is nearly empty.

The next generation will add a mini-TV screen to the dashboard to display a variety of information, even road maps. "No doubt about it, the 1980s will be the age electronics in the automobile industry." says Dennis Rhee, manager of advanced instrumenta-* tion at the Ford Motor Company.

The 'big three' car companies - General Motors, Ford and Chrysler - are all engaged in development work, but are reluctant to say much about what they are doing to protect any competitive edge they might have. All of them have developed prototype "voice boxes" - audible warning system, they call them - to make the dashboard speak.

Ford demonstrated one with a pleasant female-sounding voice to alert careless and forgetful drivers: "The key is in the ignition" or "your lights are on" or "the door is ajar.

Ford engineers see the voice box not as a gimmick but as an additional safety device. Our advanced version will tell you why that red warning light on your instrument panel is flashing, and what to do," say Rhee. Another Ford executive, Jacques Mosier adds: "And I think most drivers would prefer to have a voice tell them they've left the key in the ignition instead of hearing a buzzer sound off constantly."

A Ford public relations official. Mike Davie, says the "voice box" will not play policeman, though, "It won't tell you 'you are going too fast," he says. "We don't their European cars. Rhee says the "voice box" will not be expensive, costing Ford customers "substantially less than $100." Cost-conscious Chrysler, bailed out of bankruptcy by $1.2 billion in loan guarantees from the U.S. government, has chosen a male voice because it is cheaper. "It costs more to synthesise a female voice," explains John Webste, chief engineer for amomotive

What kind of voice will it be? We haven't products. General Motors, the biggest American car company, says it is not yet convinced the voice synthesiser will be a big selling point and is studying the psychological aspect. "We are not sure drivers want their car talking to them and telling them what to do every time they get in," says Robert MeMil-lin, director of General Motors' electronic division. "We want it to be a help not a hindrance."

However, McMillin thinks a "voice box" with no more than 10 messages would be worthwhile. The car companies are also experimenting with new visual display sys-tems - nini-TV screens called cathode ray tubes (CRTs) - with varying degrees of enthusiasm.

These would supersede the computerized digital display units now offered in luxury cars to calculate such things as fuel consumption in addition to the normal speedmeter functions.

Chrysler is looking closely at the safety factor, concerned whether the screen could be a distraction to the driver and make him take his eve off the road. Ford, which last year spent $1,675 hillion on research and development, is the most enthusiastic about CRT's. Ford engineers feel it could be used to provide a whole range of supplementary information to the "voice box" hy detailing exactly what should be done with any car problem.

JEDDAH, May 24 - Once again Sunday, local dealers reported a very quiet day with few transactions carried out. With the New York Monday holiday, the local exchange markets were reluctant to take any meaningful positions in major currencies. According to Jeddah bankers, most OBU's - Bahrain offshore banking units. had taken their preferred positions on both rival and dollar books and were concentrating on a few other Gulf currencies such as the Bahraini dinar and the Qatari and Omani rival. Since the growth of Saudi Arabian economic power, the Riyal has become the dominant currency of the OBU books, , amounting to 90 percent in some cases. It is little wonder that the actions of the OBU's affect Kingdom-based banks and vice-versa.

Locally, riyal deposit rates remained fairly stable. One-month JIBOR rates opened up at 16% - 16's percent and were quoted slightly higher at 1612 - 1614 percent by the close of the trading day. The one-year rate remained at the same level of 1512 - 16 percent. Very few deals were carried out in the fixed period tenors and in

Diplomats weather late Cosmos storm

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP) - The Washington Diplomats, despite playing a man short for the final 18 minutes, edged the Cosmos 3-2 Saturday night in north American Soccer League action.

The Diplomats were forced to play a man short when David Bradford, the league's smallest player at 5-foot-5, was sent off for janding a forearm to the head of the Cosmos' Robert Cabanas. Although the Cosmos applied the pressure in the final 18 minutes they were unable to score.

The victory, the Diplomats fifth in a row at home, raised the team's overall record to 7-3. The Cosmos, who won the first meeting of the year between the two Eastern Division rivals, 1-0 in Giants Stadium, are now 8-3.

They scored their first goal just two minutes into the game as Ross Jenkins beat goalkeeper Hubert Birkenmeier for his third goal of the season. Six minutes later the Dips struck again. Ole Mikkelsen, the team's No. 1 draft picked out of UCLA, scored his first NASL goal after Birkenmeier went down in a pileup in front of the Cosmos goal.

The Cosmos got on the scoreboard at 10:40 when Herman Borje lifted a short that hit the crossbar then fell into the goal behind the disbelieving Washington goalkeeper, Jim Brown. Saturday's attendence, 27,676, marked the largest crowd of the season at Robert F. Kennedy stadium.

Ian Botham to continue

as skipper

LONDON, May 24 (AFP) - lan Botham will continue his reign as England captain when he leads his country against Australia in the three one-day internationals for the "Prudential Trophy" next month. The games are at Lord's on June 4th Birmingham on June 6th and Leeds on June 8th. The rest of the squad will be named next weekend, Botham's position as captain had been called into question with his lack of success in terms of results and personal output in two series - home and away - against West Indies and in the "Centenary Test" against Australia.

Both series against the Caribbean stars were lost and the Centenary Test was drawn. In addition, Botham's personal form has slumped drastically

In 25 Tests before taking charge, he averaged 38 with the bat and 18 with the hall. Since last June his batting average has fallen to 14. The Somerset all-rounder has constantly denied that captaincy affects his form. Admittedly, he has personal problems, including an impending court case. Aussies struggle against Somerset's pace attack

LONDON, May 24 (AFP) - Australia's early batsmen were given a searching test by Somerset pace bowlers lan Botham and Joel Garner at Taunton Saturday.

The captains had already tossed, with the tourists deciding to bat, before rain delayed the start for an hour. When they did get out, Botham dismissed the left-handed Graeme Wood for a duck in his first over with a single scored. The tall West Indian Garner conceded only one run in his first seven overs as the Australians struggled on a dry pitch. Botham later dismissed Trevor Chappell and had figures of two wickets for 17 runs in 13 overs. At the tea interval the Australians had reached 114 for three from 60 overs. Then it rained again.

John Dyson and Chappell batted doggedly after this bad start and added 82 runs for the secood-wicket. Dyson dropped hy Viv Richard in the slips off Joel Garner, the tall fast bowler from Barbados, when he had scored two. Garner began with six successive maiden overs.

Elsewhere, rain washed out most of the scheduled program in the English County Cricket Championship.

Later Love went on to complete his second century of the Championship as Yorkshire reached 297 for five, Love's unbeaten 153 included 18 boundaries and was concerned in a 109-run partnership for the fourth wicket with Neil Hartley and 131 for the fifth wicket with David Bairstow.

Greenwood hits out at media

LONDON, May 24 (AFP) - Following England's 1-0 shutout by Scotland in their home International football match, England manager Ron Greenwood launched an astonishing two-minute attack on the media at his press conference at Wembley and then stormed out of the room, refusing to answer any questions.

Greenwood, red-faced and clearly seething, walked into the room, sal down and declared: "I just want to give a big thank you for the prefabrication of a message that went out Friday about my speaking to the players. It was the biggest journalistic licence 1 have ever met." What it did to us was to stir us up to play with the effort you saw Saturday. "In twenty-five years in football. I have always talked to players because they are the people who play. If you thought you could create a situation by pushing the knife in by a misinterpretation of my quotes then 1 will say no more. I spoke to the players the way any manager does."

Greenwood denied that the players had picked the team, as had been suggested following his Friday comments that he had asked the players what they thought was the best patiem to play.

Scotland manager Jock Stein said: "We are delighted with the performance and the result. To come here with so many young players and win is very good." "We were a bit frightened in the first half and losing Hartford was a blow because we had no real midfielders left. Robertson took over the role and controlled things.

Meanwhile, a man was killed early Sunday after being hit hy a police land rover under firebomb and brick attack by some 50 rioters in west Belfast's Old Park district, police reported.

The man, aged 33, died in a night of renewed violence in Roman Catholic districts of Belfast and Londonderry, this British province's second city.

The province was reported quiet later Sunday morning after rioters took to the streets until the early hours, pelting security force patrols with bricks, gasoline and acid bnmbs to avenge the death of the IRA's latest martyr. Police said patrols saw one rinter running away, his clothes alight from his own gasoline bomb.

An army spokesman said the IRA rifles were recovered in Camlough late Saturday by soldiers of the Royal Green Jackets Rgiment, whose comrades were killed in South Armagh last week.

The army declined further details, but said the weapons were seized after "careful observation" of the Saturday afternoon IRA military funeral for McCreesh.

He was the fourth hunger strike to die this month in Northern Ireland's Maze prison in support of demands that ailed Irish nationalist guerrillas in this British province be treated as political prisoners. Four others are currently fasting and each hunger striker is being replaced as he dies.

Security forces kept a low profile as some 25,000 mourners poured into Camlough for the funeral and - as usual - made no move when the IRA gunmen emerged to fire the traditional IRA salute to a fallen hero.

The men were shielded by women holding umbrellas to hide them from two army helicopters clattering overhead, and melted back into the crowd, Carrying arms and wearing military uniforms is illegal, but security forces have done nothing at any of the previous IRA military funerals, apparently wanting to avoid provocation.

Power war intensifies in British Labor Party LONDON, May 24 (R) - The power struggle in Britain's opposition Labor Party intensified Sunday when former Agriculture

Minister John Silkin announced he would challenge Tony Benn to replace Denis Healey as deputy party leader. Silkin, although also on the left-wing of the party, is viewed as more moderate than Benn, whose bid for the deputy leadership has deepended the party's right-left divisions.

Political sources said Silkin's move would split the left-wing when the party votes for a deputy leader io the autumn. Under reforms since the party lost the last general election in 1979, the leader and his deputy are chosen by an electoral college giving trade unions 40 percent of the vot or parliamentarians 30 percept and party workers 30 percent. This and other moves to the left eocouraged 13 Labor parliamentarians to split from the party this year and from a breakaway Social Democratic Party in protest. Announcing his candidature, Silkin said Britain's biggest problem was unemployment and that he backed increased public investment, import controls and withdrawal from the European Common Market (EEC). Benn wants withdrawal from the ECC, unilateral nuclear disarmament and state ownership of big banks and industrial companies.

Forlani team to discuss Mason issue

ROME, May 24 (R) - Labor Minister Franco Foschi said Sunday he would not follow the minister of justice and resign in Italy's deepening scandal over alleged espinnage by a secret masonic lodge. Foschi, who once signed a recommendation for an applicant seeking to join the lodge, known as "P2," told the newspaper La stampar ""I deny any connection with P2 and this attempt to destabilize the counьy.

Justice Minister Adolfo Sarti resigned Saturday after newspapers published his signed application to join P2. He said he had never followed up the application.

In an atmosphere of growing crisis, the leaders of the Christian Democratic, Socialist, Social Democratic and Republican parties, which make up prime minister Amaldo Forlan's coalition, will meet Monday to discuss the issue.

Pulitical experts said they might decide on a cabinet reshuffle or even consider resignation, to be followed by a reestablishment of their alliance. A key factur will be the attitude of Socialist leader Bettino Craxi, who had now expressed hopes of becoming Italy's first non-Christian Democratic prime minister since the end of World War II.

The political experts said Craxi might choose this moment to press for a change of prime minister as a price for continued membership of the four-party coalition.

"I reiterated to Chancellor Schmidt the importance I attach to relations of trust between our two countries and their leaders," Mitterrand said after this first diplomatic meeting since his investiture Thursday.

Sources said that the key result of the meeting was Schmidt's pledge of support for France's efforts to maintain parity for the ailing franc in the European monetary system, For his part, the sources said, Mitterrand backed Bonn's acceptance of the deployment of new medium-range . nuclear missiles in Western Europe beginning in 1983 and its call for resumption of U.S.-Soviet talks on Eurostrategic weapons.

In a brief speech outside the Elysee Palace where he held three hours of talks with Schmidt Sunday, Mitterrand said they had discussed common problems and made a broad study of relations between their two countries and with the United States within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The talks also covered the world economic situation, each other's economic problems, disarmament, arms control and the questions raised by the stationing of missiles in Europe. Mitterrand added. Following their meeting, Schmidt left Paris aboard a West German air force plane to return to Bonn,

Meanwhile, French External Affairs Minister Claude Cheysson said in an interview with The Washington Post that the new French government will prove to be a "reliable partner" of the Atlantic alliance, Cheysson was quoted by the newspaper as saying he did not want the United States to repeat past errors by showing distrust of French left-wing governments.

This American attitude had previously undermined the effectiveness of such governments during their first months in power, he said. The minister predicted that the United States would appreciate the direct method with which the government of Socialist Minerrand would approach foreign affairs.

According to the Post, the general foreign policy principles outlined by Cheysson appeared to confirm similarity between Paris and Washington views on the Middle East and East-West relations. Bot they could run into differences regarding the Third World, especially South and North Africa and above

Ban on festivity Poland to close down 2 embassies

Sept. 22.

WARSAW, May 24 (Agencies) --Poland's Foreign Ministry has decided to close its embassies in Nepal and Cyprus as well as several consulates as part of an austerity move, Foreign Minister Jozef Czyrek told a newspaper here.

In an interview that appeared in the daily Zrcie Warszawy, Czyrek said budget cuts of more than 20 percent have been imposed on his department. Ministry expenditures will thus be brought to a level five percent lower than that of 1977. One result will be cancellation of receptions and festivities in Polish embassies and consulates abroad, which employ about 1,000 Poles. Poland has diplomatic relations with 127 countries, and missions in 84 of those countries.

In a front-page article, Zrcie Warszawy warned that the situation in the country, though calmer, was oot yet stable, and implied that extremists among hard-line Communists and right-wing dissideots might try to stage "provocations." "Any minor incident may result in dangerous complications," the oewspaper said. Actions which could upset Poland's neighbors -- an obvious reference to the Soviet Union - were particularly dangerous. Another hooligan excess or an unpremeditated action could bring down an avalanche, the daily said.

The article did not elaborate. But political observers bere said it seemed aimed at recent violent incidents such as the burning down of a Warsaw suburban police post, renewed

Two Czech climbers conquer Himalayan peak

KATMANDU, Nepal, May 24 (Agencies) - Two members of a Czechoslovakia Himalayan expeditioo scaled Mount Kanochenjunga, the 8,598-meter-high world's third highest peak, May 21 through the north face, Nepal's Ministry of Tourism announced bere Sunday.

Josef Psotka, 46, of Bratislava, and an unidentified colleague reached the summit in the afternoon, where they planted the Czech and Nepalese national flags during their about 20-minute stay there. The ministry said that the dimbers were reported to have dimbed the mountain "without oxygen."

Meanwhile, the 20-member Japanese Meiji expedition has admitted failure after four unsuccessful bids to conquer Mount. labor unrest and the planned student demonstrations.

Poland's independent Students Association, which won legal status earlier this year after staging strikes at universities across the country, has announced plans for protest marches in Warsaw and other cities next Monday, demanding freedom for political prisoners.

Stefan Bratkowski reformist president of the Polish Journalists' Association, Saturday appealed to the students to call off the street demonstrations in a message also published by Zycie Warstawy entitled" Do not create an opportunity for stupidities." He advised the students to confine their protest to university premises, saying that tensions were rising and street demonstrations could have incalculable consequences.

Bratkowski blamed the tension on hardline propaganda asserting that Poland was falling into anarchy. Various groups of people were ready to resort to any kind of provocation to back up this propaganda and thwart reform, he said.

Meanwhile, the PAP news agency reported the ailing Polish primate cardinal Stefan Wyszynski was in "very serious" condition and his state of health had "worsened" since last week.

A Soviet Communist Party delegation headed by Nikolai Petrovichev, a member of the party's central committee, wound up a six-day visit to Poland Sunday, the Tass news agency reported.

Cheysson said during the interview that" in terms of the Atlantic alliance, you can't have a more reliable partner than us." He also said that he could not understand why." the greatest country in the world" wanted West Europe to "kneel" before its policies and views.

The minister said that President Reagan's. attitude toward the Third World was one of "charity and respect for the starving" but that the U.S. leader failed to include these countries in strategic considerations. "For us, the Third World is an essential partner. We depend very much on them for our supplies," Chevsson said.

He noted that" we are completely new and strange to our allies" but said that French diplomatic representation abroad would undergo only the minimum of modification. The French ambassador in Washington was among those that would not be recalled, at least for the present, be said.

Mitterrand supporters to contest all seats

PARIS, May 24 (R) - The Socialist Party of French President Francois Mitterrand Sunday announced candidates it hopes will give it a majority on a new National Assembly to be elected next month. Mitterrand dissolved the old assembly, which had a 70-seat right-wing majority, last week and hopes his party's 491 candidates wil provide a majority able to push through sweeping economic and social reforms.

All three past presidents of the 23-year-old Fifth Republic have been able to count on a National Assembly majority.

The Socialists are fielding a candidate in each constituency in the National Assembly elections, to take place June 14 and 21.
